3. Procedure for Admission

3.1 Notification and Intake

Admission to the Ph.D. programmes of Chalapathi University shall be undertaken through a duly notified admission process. The number of seats available in each Ph.D. programme shall be determined by the competent authority of the University, taking into consideration the availability of eligible research supervisors, research infrastructure, and other applicable requirements.

3.2 University Research Entrance Examination:

Eligible candidates shall ordinarily be required to appear for the Chalapathi University Research Admission Test (CURAT) or such other research entrance examination as may be prescribed by the University for the relevant academic year.

3.3 Interview

Candidates qualifying in the University's research entrance examination shall be called for an interview for final selection to the Ph.D. programme. The interview shall assess the candidate's research aptitude, subject knowledge, proposed area of research, and suitability for doctoral-level research.

3.4 Exemption from the University Entrance Examination

Candidates who qualify in UGC-NET/CSIR-JRF/SLET/GATE, hold a valid teacher fellowship, or possess an M.Phil. qualification, or who qualify through any other examination/category recognized under the applicable UGC regulations, shall be exempted from the University's research entrance examination, wherever such exemption is applicable. However, such candidates shall be required to appear for the interview conducted by Chalapathi University for final selection to the Ph.D. programme. The admission process shall be implemented in accordance with the applicable UGC regulations and notifications in force during the Academic Year 2026–2027.

4. Allocation of Research Supervisor

A suitable Research Supervisor shall be allocated to each admitted Ph.D. scholar by Chalapathi University, in accordance with the University's approved procedure and the applicable UGC regulations. The allocation shall take into consideration the scholar's proposed research area, the specialization and research expertise of available supervisors, supervisory capacity, and the availability of appropriate research facilities.

5. Ph.D. Coursework

5.1 Credit Requirement

Every Ph.D. scholar shall complete the prescribed coursework carrying a minimum of 12 credits, including the courses prescribed in Research Methodology and Research and Publication Ethics. The University may also permit scholars, wherever applicable, to undertake approved online certification courses through recognized platforms such as NPTEL/SWAYAM, subject to approval under the University's academic regulations.

5.2 Research-Area-Specific Courses

Two additional courses, carrying 4 credits each, shall be selected in areas relevant to the scholar's proposed research. Such courses may be offered by the concerned School of Chalapathi University, through an appropriate postgraduate programme, or through approved online certification courses such as NPTEL/SWAYAM, subject to approval by the Doctoral Research Committee.

5.3 Completion of Coursework

The prescribed coursework shall be completed within two years from the date of admission for both full-time and part-time Ph.D. scholars. A minimum attendance of 75% in each course shall ordinarily be mandatory. This attendance requirement shall not apply to approve online certification courses, wherever permitted. A scholar who fails to satisfy the prescribed attendance requirement shall be required to repeat the concerned coursework, in accordance with the University's academic regulations.

6. General Provision

All matters relating to admission, eligibility, duration, coursework, supervision, research progress, thesis submission, evaluation, viva-voce, and award of the Ph.D. degree shall be governed by the Ph.D. Regulations of Chalapathi University applicable to the Academic Year 2026–2027, together with the applicable UGC regulations, notifications, and statutory requirements.

Where any provision of these regulations requires clarification or interpretation, the decision of the competent statutory authority of Chalapathi University shall be final, subject to the applicable statutory and regulatory framework.
